Human Nature

Become what you are

I see your legs
Moving the ground
I feel your soul
Unbound
Feels like I have found
Someone to trust
I smell your smile, fear and lust
Come near
To feel the heat
When our sights meet
And you offer me a piece of meat
I feel your breath
And after chasing
We take a rest

Moon shimmering
Like a river
The cold sweeps away the heat of the day
With a shiver
And when the last shine of day is gone
Our life has begun
Over the valleys and hills, we hum
From the volcano until the sea
You can hear, but you can't see
The singers, the voices, like ghosts of meadow and wood
We are the ones who put
The babies to sleep
We are the ones that keep
You alive
Cause we are a part
Of the circle of life

I was falling

I'm fLOWing

And growing

Finding my feet

Haven't felt them before

Didn't know that I need

This shape to leave the deep water

And crack the surface

But now I have to face

All these beings outside

I am transformed

And I feel so ALIVE

And I ARISE

Are you like a pollywog?

Don't worry, take your time to become a frog

Deep

I IOsT my home

I was falling to deep

But they said I was grown

They thought I was grown

Never have I ever known

The deepness under me

It's like when you fall

You only start to see

What you had and what you've been

You catch some air from in-between

You spread your W I N G S

That you never used before

And you rise up

To be higher than you ever had been before

Hungry I long for you
Like the sea longs for the shore
Like the waves gently touch the sand
I touch your skin with my hand
Like the sun greets the sea where it meets the sky
I greet your beauty with my eye
Like salty water I want to drink
I drown in you, I start to sink

You drown me deeper into unknown
With pressure rising
My precious wild thing
Where mysteries are still unfound
Just deepest waters and no ground

Let's leave the shallow water
Let's get deeper to know each other
Let's discover what we have never seen
Let's swim to what seems
To be the end of this
I once have been a small fish
Let's break the horizon
Let's skip the waterfront
Let's bond
And become
A part of the sea
To never touch the sky
But be free

There she stood
So beautiful and pure
I saw her eye and smelled her fur
There she was with eyes so deep
To reflect in them my deepest needs
Her smile so slim just like a mother
Her nose so red like my little brothers
Her legs so strong like they belong
To my own father
And then these eyes like my lover
There she stood but did not see
That she is everything to me
My pride, my pleasure and my capital
I often wonder oh so skeptical
Is she happy, full and healthy?
Cause if so one day I'll be wealthy

Ode to my family
The ones I ever see
Ode to my family
My father and mother
My beloved sisters and brothers
Who make me feel alive
Who survived
Wind and weather
To make me feel better
To show that I matter
Ode to the ones that care
Ode to those who share
Who create and make Ode to the ones so old and great Ode to the ones I love the most Covered in dew and moss
That now lay beneath me, my greatest loss
Wetted in my pain
Regretted, killed by someone so vain
Who never saw what time can do
That nature gives back the truth
Moistened with my angry tears
Oh yeah you may fear thus
You killed the ones I loved the dearest

I see your smile
But haven't felt it in a while
Are you okay?
You don't have to stay
Remember you strayed
In the streets, in the dust
Were you lonesome, or was it wanderlust?
I see your smile
Or is it pain?
Do you feel free
Or more insane?
Do you love me, or do you serve?
Am I home to you, or are you just hungry?

Or me being gay
You don't care how I look
Even though you could Fight me
You make me feel like you like me
And you forgive the mistakes I make
You make me feel less afraid
You give you give
I throw you catch
Feels like we are
A perfect match

Hungry for my touch
Cause when I hold you warm
You can't get enough
And when I feel lonely
You ask me to go out and play
You don't care about my grades

Oh how the wind
Unwinds today
Oh how the stones
Are stoned anyway
Oh how the water
Waters me
Oh how the sea
Makes me see
Oh how the sun
Is sunk
And trees
Treenail for fun
Birding
Gets a burden
When birdbrained hearths
Just watch themselves Say things like look at those piss-ant ants and do forget they end up killing themselves they forget they are the ones that help that allow them to express themselves

Go and greet her my love
When you meet her
Sprinkle from above
My innermost I gave too you
Let her know my love is true
Cause I don't know her yet
And maybe we never met
But with your legs
Give her back
What I gave you as a greet
Oh my friend cause how I need
You for this
And you need me
My inner core
So come again like you came before
Touch me gentle in the summer breeze
Make my words fade and breath
Lay them down upon her chest
Let her know I only want the best
For her, for you, for me and us
This is love, not just lust
I lay upon you my trust
My muse, my friend, my messenger
Please bring my words to her

(the beautiful flower)

I stare into your hungry eyes

They scare me off

But make me fly

Feels like I

And you with me

Lost time

To still be free

I stare into your lively soul

Feels cold but still so wonderful

Feels like this is the last thing I see

I die to make you free

Cause all you need

Is someone who feeds

You

Trough

And with

Their entire life

I give myself to you

To keep you alive

Tired heads

And empty skulls

We strive the land, we land, we pull

Trough the lulls

So dull

Trough the storms

So wonderful

You strive to make us null

You picture our empty hulls

But look, we're alive and full

You treat us like cull

You try to cull

You try to gull

Us But we don't mull

We are bulls

Full of lust

And trust

You kill yourself if you kill all of us

Through the night
We strive
For light
Up and up
And down
We dance
I see your face with a glance
Up and down
Into the light
I want to be
To be alright
What once has been a shimmer
Now brighter than lights of a bimmer
See we have danced in dim lights
But darling this one is too bright
You whisper that you feel alright
But I know this is the end of our night
Cause this is getting way too hot
We die inside the streetlights spot

Morning came with a breeze
Made me smile, leave the freeze
Morning winds have touched our hair
As if they care
About our smiles
It came and stayed here for a while
In our bodies
Strived our souls
Hear how the wind howls
For his mother
How gently it lets us touch another
And how it lets us hope
That it will bring us clouds
That will wash away all our doubts
That will touch us deep
To keep Us living
To give that we will be giving
By saving its good
In meadows and under the woods
We treasure, keep together, and shelter this good
With our roots
